

1

The source of my music is neither lightfall nor darkness, but the ground they fret over,

their mix the breath
I draw walking.

2

The past tense
is a mist, flowering.

The bodies of birds
evaporate into it, becoming
its song,
fading
into everything beyond me, into light.

